Erik ten Hag left 'physically shattered' after joining players on 13.8 km run

Manchester United manager Erik ten Hag made a 'deep impression' on his players after he joined them on a 13.8 km run, a day after their embarrassing 4-0 defeat to Brentford.

The Dutch manager was left furious with United's performance on the 13th of August and ordered his players to come into training on their planned day off and ordered them to run 13.8 kilometres - the difference in distance covered by Brentford during their Premier League clash.

One week later, and Ten Hag's men recorded a distance of 113.8 km during their victory over Liverpool. This was 18.2 km more than they ran against Brentford.
